HOME FIELD FOR THE HOLIDAYS

Although circumstances did not allow Gillette Stadium to host fans at Patriots games this season, One Patriot Place was not the same without our hometown Foxborough Season Ticket Members. With that in mind, the Patriots invited Season Ticket Members to experience the stadium unlike ever before.

At the Home Field for the Holidays event, guests had the opportunity to capture unique and festive family photos from the safety of their vehicles. Each car followed the path of the Patriots, driving from under the lighthouse, onto the field and into the opposite end zone with opportunities to stop, roll down the car windows and smile for the camera.

MAGIC OF LIGHTS

Residents enjoy festive drive-through experience

Gillette Stadium shone bright all holiday season, as the home of the New England Patriots and Revolution hosted the Magic of Lights drive-through experience from Nov. 13, 2020 through Jan. 9, 2021.

The dazzling and contactless experience featured over 1.5 miles of festive light displays made with the latest in LED technology. Highlights included the Blizzard Tunnel, 12 Days of Christmas, Winter Wonderland, The Night Before Christmas and the grand finale: the Enchanted Tunnel of Lights containing tens of thousands of bulbs, all animated into a spectacular show of sparkling lights in every direction.

Several Foxborough families, including moms from the Foxborough Working Mothers

Facebook group, enjoyed this safe and festive event free of charge courtesy of the Kraft family.

Born-and-raised resident Erica Marder attended with her three children ranging in age from eight to 15. She said she was thrilled to win the complimentary pass because it was a safe experience her whole family could enjoy to kick off the holiday season. While the Blizzard Tunnel was the family's favorite, Marder said they also enjoyed the 12 Days of Christmas and Eight Wonders of the World displays and spotting each of the different elements as they drove through.

"To have this experience for the holidays was truly a gift," Marder said. "I loved doing something with just our family, and that we had something to kick off the holiday season to get us in the mood. To be able to spend time together and drive through holiday lights made everything feel normal and like nothing was wrong in the world. We really enjoyed and appreciated everything that was on display.”

Molly Kelleher, a lifelong resident whose parents also grew up in Foxborough, enjoyed the festive experience with her two young sons and her mother. Kelleher’s oldest son Liam especially enjoyed the display of Santa on a motorcycle, and the whole family loved following along the 12 Days of Christmas display.

“It was really kind and generous of the Kraft Group to offer that experience to local families,” Kelleher said. “It’s been a hard year for everyone and you cling to those moments of things you can get excited about and look forward to and Magic of Lights certainly did not disappoint. We had a blast and really enjoyed the experience as a family.”

The Kraft family also teamed up with social workers from the town’s health and human services department and the Hockomock Area YMCA to donate tickets to deserving families throughout town. Ed Hurley, president and CEO of the Hockomock Area YMCA for the past 27 years, and his team selected eight deserving scholarship and staff families to attend Magic of Lights courtesy of the Patriots Foundation and Kraft family. Hurley said he especially appreciated the opportunity to thank the staff who have been working tirelessly to support other families throughout the community over the past several months.

“We couldn’t do the work we’ve been doing without our amazing staff,” Hurley said. “They’ve been there for all these other families, and it was great to give them something to do with their own families. To see what it meant to them and their kids, and the memories that they’ll have from enjoying the experience this holiday season is what it’s all about.”

Resident Chris Orena enjoyed this one-of-a-kind experience with his wife. Orena has lived in town right behind the stadium since 2001, and has been attending Patriots games for the past 20 years.

“It was nice to be back in the stadium like that and remember what you’ve been missing this season,” Orena said. “I’m really lucky because as a huge football fan, you couldn’t ask for more than to have the Patriots right here and to have the stadium right in my backyard.”

A resident since 1994

and Season Ticket Member for 25 years, Maureen O’Driscoll also thoroughly enjoyed the event, attending with her two sons, her brother and his son.

“It was cool to be on the field, look up and see all the banners and see everything from that perspective,” O’Driscoll said. “To be honest, it made me emotional to be back in the stadium and see my seats after all that time. Especially living in Foxborough, it feels like the whole town comes together on gamedays even if you can’t be there in person.”

Foxborough Moms Capture Joy at Patriot Place

As a special thank you for their continued loyalty and support, Patriot Place offered guests the opportunity to get free family portraits overlooking Gillette Stadium during weekends throughout December. The Capture Joy photo project allowed guests to celebrate time with their families and capture new memories during the holiday season. Patriot Place didn't have to look far to find the right photographers for the job, hiring five working mothers from Foxborough for the project. Longtime residents Faye Joyce and Julie Curry kicked off the event, capturing family portraits on opening weekend.

Joyce has been a resident for the past 21 years and first got into photography eight years ago as a way to capture memories with her own family. Over the years, she's also used her skills to shoot the fall photo fundraiser for the Ahern Parent Advisory Council, photo fundraisers for the Friends of Foxborough Recreation and the IgoCares Annual Mother/Son Dance. Joyce kicked off the Capture Joy project as the first photographer to shoot on Dec. 12.

"It was nice to be able to give back a little bit to people during such a difficult year," Joyce said. "There were a lot of families and a lot of smiles which was nice to see, and it was great to see people together as a family."

Curry is another Foxborough mother who has pursued a passion for photography since she was a teenager. For the past three years, Curry has taken on projects like shooting seasonal and family photos. She especially enjoyed being a part of Capture Joy to spread holiday cheer and capture memories for other families down the street from her home.

"It was cool to be able to do something at Patriot Place and work together to spread the holiday joy and capture these moments for families after a tough year," Curry said. "Part of the reason I love photography is because it allows you to capture these special moments. Especially as a mom, I feel like capturing these moments is so important because your kids grow up so quickly. Most people that came had kids as well, so I loved being able to capture these moments for these families that are fleeting and disappearing so quickly."

During a difficult year for so many families, a few Foxborough moms delighted in the opportunity to help other local families make long-lasting positive memories at Patriot Place.

FACES OF FOXBOROUGH

CHRIS MATTES

New England Patriots Director of Player Operations & Engagement Chris Mattes and his family moved to Foxborough seven months ago, but have already made themselves at home.

"The best thing about Foxborough is the close-knit, small town feel," Mattes said. "Everyone cares about one another and brings endless support and love for the Patriots."

Mattes has worked for the hometown team since 2017, assisting players, coaches and staff with the logistical and cultural transition to the team and the Foxborough area. He describes his job as "doing everything in my power to make the players' and coaches' lives easier so their sole focus can be on football."

"My favorite thing is by far working with so many special individuals on and off the field," Mattes said. "They have the dedication on the field to be the best they can be at what they do every day. Then off the field, the way our players impact the community in such a positive way and dedicate themselves to numerous causes they are passionate about is incredible."

When he's not working with the team, Mattes and his fiancé love walking their puppy Chappy at Payson Field and along the Neponset Reservoir, and grabbing a bite to eat at local spots Conrad's, Sal's & Mal's Pizzeria or Dairy Queen.

Located in the North Marketplace adjacent to Capriotti's Sandwich Shop and across from Tavolino, Achilito's offers guests a taste of flavorful Mexican cuisine prepared with care. A family-owned and operated restaurant, Achilito's features favorites like tacos, burritos and enchiladas, boasting a wide range of delicious fresh options for guests to enjoy. Achilito's is open from 11 a.m. until 8 p.m. Sunday through Thursday, and from 11 a.m. until 9 p.m. on Friday and Saturday.

Achilito's is owned and operated by Margaret Pimentel, a long-time Boston resident who is passionate about using real ingredients, from chiles to fresh tomatillos, to make fresh and wholesome meals for the whole family. The Patriot Place location is Achilito's third, after opening its flagship restaurant in Jamaica Plain in 2018.

"We are very excited to open Achilito's Taqueria at Patriot Place and bring our fresh and flavorful food to Foxborough," Pimentel said. "We are thankful for all of those that have helped us along the way, and appreciate the support of our Boston community and encouragement of Satander's Cultivate program and Commonwealth Kitchens. Their support encouraged us to dream bigger. I am especially thankful to Patriot Place for giving us the opportunity to serve the Foxborough community. We look forward to expanding our community and getting to know new families and friends."

Achilito's features a quick service counter where guests can choose from dozens of delicious meal options to enjoy from Achilito's indoor seating, patio seating, or carry out to have on the go. The restaurant is now open for indoor and patio dining under reopening guidelines from the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Achilito's also features a colorful mural by local artist Alvin Colón entitled "La Cultura Rica" or "The Rich Culture." The mural decorates the interior of the space, and is centered around a message of vibrant culture, indigenous roots, nature and movement.

"We are thrilled to officially open Achilito's Taqueria and welcome Margaret and her wonderful staff to Patriot Place," said Brian Earley, Vice President and General Manager of Patriot Place. "Achilito's commitment to flavorful and fresh food, as well as their family-oriented mindset make them a great fit. Achilito's will be a great part of Patriot Place moving forward and we know our guests will enjoy their delicious food, community mindset and colorful décor."

Patriot Place hosts Festival of Trees Holiday Stroll

To ring in the holiday season, Patriot Place shops, restaurants and offices each decorated their own tree in a creative and festive way. Guests enjoyed the trees displayed throughout the North Marketplace in December as part of the socially distanced Festival of Trees Holiday Stroll. Trees decked out in lights, tinsel, ornaments and other festive accoutrements lined Patriot Place, allowing guests to safely get into the holiday spirit.

In the spirit of giving, each of the participating venues also selected a charity to highlight. Guests then had the opportunity to vote for their favorite tree using contactless QR codes stationed at each display, with the winning tree earning a $1,000 donation to its designated charity. Spaulding Outpatient Center for Children/MassGeneral for Children took home the top prize, earning Special Olympics of Massachusetts $1,000 courtesy of Patriot Place.

"As we celebrate the holiday season and the spirit of giving, hosting the Festival of Trees Holiday Stroll was an exciting event for us," said Diana Griffin, Director of Marketing for Patriot Place. "It was great to showcase the creative talents of our venues, and we were honored to donate $1,000 to Special Olympics of Massachusetts."

Kraft Family Thanks Foxborough Town Employees with Coffee Truck Tour

The Kraft family thanked over 200 town employees for their continued great work by surprising them with coffee, Munchkins and Patriots giveaway items from the Dunkin' Coffee Truck.

"The Town of Foxborough has been an incredible partner over the years, and Foxborough employees work tirelessly to support our town and organization on a daily basis," said Dan Murphy, Vice President of Business Development and External Affairs for Kraft Sports + Entertainment. "We were more than happy to set up this coffee truck tour as a small token of our appreciation for all their hard work."

Throughout the day, the Dunkin' Coffee Truck, accompanied by Pat Patriot, delivered treats to the Public Schools Administrative team, Town Hall, Senior Center, Department of Public Works and Public Safety. The giveaway items, coffee and Munchkins were pre-packaged in a safe and sanitary manner and assembled into a disposable tray for town employees to grab during a break in their work day. The first stop of the day was at the Ahern Middle School to surprise Foxborough Public School Administrators before making stops at Town Hall, the Senior Center and Department of Public Works, and wrapping up at the Public Safety building.

"It almost makes you speechless in the moment," said Diana Myers-Pachla, principal of Foxborough High School. "It's been a great partnership over the years between the Kraft family, the Patriots and Foxborough. This was such a wonderful surprise for us and it means the world."

"It was exciting to have the Dunkin' truck come visit us," said Chris Gallagher, director of the Department of Public Works. "It's nice to have positive feedback and be recognized by the Kraft family, Dunkin' and the Patriots."

Foxborough Season Ticket Member Shines Bright on Sunday Night Football

Even though there were no fans in the stands at CenturyLink Field for the Patriots' Sunday Night Football matchup at the Seattle Seahawks earlier this fall, one Foxborough Season Ticket Member did have the chance to cheer on his hometown team. Stephen Strickland has lived in Foxborough for 13 years, and been a proud Patriots Season Ticket Member for the past 26 years. Before this season, Strickland never missed a single home game, including preseason matchups.

But during this very different year, Strickland experienced cheering on the Patriots during a game in a brand new way. He had the opportunity to be one of a handful of Patriots fans virtually featured during NBC's Sunday Night Football broadcast as the Patriots narrowly lost a thriller to the Seahawks.

As part of the Patriots fan mosaic, Strickland and other Patriots fans were broadcast across the country cheering on their team during the pregame show and between game action. Strickland, with the help of his wife Jenna, even dyed his beard red, silver and blue to really get in the festive gameday mood.

"I enjoyed the experience, and it was a unique opportunity that was fun to do," Strickland said. "My favorite part was when we made it on the broadcast, and that we went overboard by dying my beard. My beard is a six-inch long goatee-type beard and it was striped out in Patriots red, white and blue."

While Strickland wasn't able to cheer on the Patriots from his typical Gillette Stadium seats this season, he was still able to show off his team spirit and root on his hometown team as the Patriots battled the Seahawks in another primetime classic that came down to the final play.

Foxborough Police collect winter coats and supplies for veterans in need

On Tuesday, Dec. 8, the Patriots Foundation and Mass Military Support Foundation hosted the Coats 4 Vets event at Gillette Stadium to help people in need stay warm and safe this holiday season.

Police officers from each of the 351 cities and towns throughout Massachusetts were invited to drive to Gillette Stadium to pick up buckets filled with coats, gloves, hats, masks, hand sanitizer and snacks to deliver to people throughout the state. Each officer also received a box of 1,000 masks to distribute in their community and a boxed lunch and coffee courtesy of the Kraft family. Over 4,000 buckets filled with winter gear and 350,000 masks were collected by police officers to deliver to veterans and any other people in need they encounter in their local communities.

Throughout the morning, cruisers from across the Commonwealth lined up at Gillette Stadium to collect these essential items. The hometown police department also made the trip down the street to Coats 4 Vets, with Deputy Chief Richard Noonan representing the Foxborough Police Department. Original Season Ticket Member Enjoys Legendary Panel

As a Patriots Season Ticket Member, Tom Doucette has seen it all. A resident since 1995, Doucette has been the proud owner of season tickets since the Patriots were founded back in 1960, cheering on the team through six decades and six Super Bowl Championships.

Doucette was one of 10 guests at the Legendary Cocktail Party with Steve Grogan and Stanley Morgan, hosted by The Sports Museum. This virtual event featured special presentations from Grogan and Morgan, and allowed each of the guests to ask questions and enjoy a conversation with the two Patriots legends for more than an hour.

"The highlight was the two presentations by Grogan and Morgan on the time they were with the Patriots and their whole careers when they played here," Doucette said. "The panel itself was also really good and there were some really good questions asked. They were asked about the style of play back then, and if they could compete against guys in the NFL now. They also talked about some big games, and it was those types of stories that jogged your memory to help remember some of the moments."

As a fan who witnessed countless Grogan and Morgan games in person, Doucette said he enjoyed hearing first-hand memories from the players and reminiscing about those Patriot teams.

"Being an old guy like me that's been around a lot of years, I enjoyed listening to what they said because they would say something and I would be like, 'Oh yeah, I remember that happening,'" Doucette said. "It was good from that point of view. And I liked the younger kids that were asking the questions because they were asking intelligent questions. They knew football and they asked questions about their careers and what it was like to play back then."

As a fan from the beginning, Doucette has made a lifetime of memories with the Patriots. But one game does stick out from the rest. Like many fans, Doucette's favorite game is the 2001 AFC play-off game against the Raiders, affectionately known as the Snow Bowl, that kicked off the dynasty. Although Doucette wasn't able to attend any home games this season, he was still able to make another unforgettable Patriots memory at the Legendary Cocktail Party.

Board of Health Hosts Hauler Day at Gillette Stadium

Several years ago, the Town of Foxborough implemented Hauler Day, an annual event where several towns in the surrounding area come together to have their septic tank haulers inspected and licensed. Since state regulations required that these haulers be inspected and licensed by each municipality where they operate, Hauler Day makes the inspection process much easier and more efficient.

In another example of the ongoing partnership between the Town of Foxborough and the Kraft Group, the Foxborough Board of Health was able to host this year's Hauler Day event in Gillette Stadium's spacious parking lots. The space and central location allowed each hauler to quickly and easily get their inspection and license for the year. To commemorate this special Hauler Day, each employee also received a Patriots rally towel, no-touch tool and schedule magnet.

For the first time, the Foxborough Board of Health hosted Hauler Day at Gillette Stadium.

Gillette Stadium to Host 2025, 2026 NCAA Lacrosse Championships

Gillette Stadium, in partnership with Harvard University, will once again host college lacrosse's biggest weekend, earning the bid for the 2025 and 2026 NCAA Men's and Division I Women's Lacrosse Championships. The Division I Women's Lacrosse Championships will be played in conjunction with the Division I, II and III Men's Lacrosse Championships over Memorial Day Weekend, on May 23-26 in 2025 and on May 22-25 in 2026.

"We are honored to have earned the privilege of hosting the 2025 and 2026 NCAA Men's and Division I Women's Lacrosse Championships, building on Gillette Stadium's and New England's rich lacrosse tradition," said Robert Kraft, chairman and CEO of The Kraft Group. "After first bringing the men's and women's lacrosse communities together at Gillette Stadium for the 2017 championships, we cannot wait to welcome fans from across the country and the nation's best lacrosse programs back to Foxborough for another two landmark weekends for the sport."

These banner weekends mark the second and third times in NCAA history that the Division I Men's and Women's Lacrosse Championships will be hosted at the same venue, with Gillette Stadium also serving as the host venue in 2017. The Division I Women's Lacrosse Championship set its all-time attendance record at Gillette Stadium in 2017, which still stands. The men's championships will take place at the home of the Patriots and Revolution for the sixth and seventh times, where the event has enjoyed a history of success and set several attendance records. The championships have been played in Foxborough in 2008, 2009, 2012, 2017 and 2018, attracting fans from 47 states and six countries.

"I was thrilled to win this experience, especially because I never win anything," Chamberlin said. "We had a blast watching the game, and the food was delicious."

Although the Patriots lost a close contest to the Texans, Chamberlin and her guests made a lifelong memory together at CBS Sporting Club, enjoying a gameday experience in the shadow of Gillette Stadium.

PIP Fund Grants $2,250 to Foxborough Music Association

Sherman Irby, lead alto for the Jazz at Lincoln Center Orchestra led a music masterclass for Foxborough students on Nov. 16. The PIP Fund granted $2,250 to the Foxborough Music Association to help cover the cost of several of these masterclasses throughout the school year.

The Foxborough Music Association received $2,250 to cover the cost of online masterclasses led by professional musicians from around the world. Each masterclass consists of a professional musician joining students and their teachers live through an online platform. During this time, each student takes turns performing the music they have been working on, and the professional musician then provides specific feedback and advice to each student on how to continue to improve as a musician. The Foxborough Public School's Music Department has been using these virtual classes to provide music instruction for students in new and exciting ways, and make the most of the unique opportunities remote learning provides. The first masterclass guest was Sherman Irby, lead alto for the Jazz at Lincoln Center

Orchestra.

"The Foxboro Jazz program was honored to host the great Sherman Irby," said Cami Tedoldi, Director of Music for Foxborough Public Schools. "He performed for our students and engaged with them in meaningful conversation. We could not have had this experience without the support of the Foxborough Music Association with a grant from the PIP Fund."
